Oscar Singing Sensation Jamia Dedicates “Time for Us” to Support “Campaign to End Child Homelessness” in America

Atlanta, GA—A new report finding 1 in 50 children homeless in America each year (www.HomelessChildrenAmerica.org) by the National Center on Family Homelessness has struck a deep cord with the public. In response, 12-year-old Oscar singing sensation Jamia has recorded “Time for Us” as a rallying cry for action. She will be debuting the emotion filled song in her native Atlanta, GA on Global Youth Service Day.

Jamia will be making appearances in Atlanta on Friday, April 24 and Saturday, April 25. The highlight will be the debut of her new song “Time for Us” at an appearance at a Global Youth Service Day celebration on Saturday at the Cobb County Civic Center (548 South Marietta Parkway, Marietta, GA) at 1:00 pm.

The moving lyrics from “Time for Us” include Jamia passionately singing “No more excuses, we’ve got to do what’s right...Now is the time for us to reach out our hands.” The new song was recorded in collaboration with her music label, The Popular Entertainment Group. All proceeds will support the Campaign to End Child Homelessness.

“Out of all the roles I have played, none is as important as the one I play today in helping homeless children off the streets, especially through these tough times when 1 out of 50 kids are homeless in America,” said Jamia Simone Nash (Jamia).

“Jamia is an extraordinary young person whose touching song is sure to spur Americans to demand help for homeless children,” said Ellen L. Bassuk, MD, president of the National Center on Family Homelessness which is sponsoring the Campaign to End Child Homelessness. “Her heartfelt lyrics will bring our message to millions of more fortunate children and families around the nation.”

The Campaign to End Child Homelessness seeks to increase public awareness, advocate for effective state and national policies, and improve services to prevent and end child homelessness. Children who are homeless have more health problems, often go hungry, struggle in school, and are exposed to violence. For more information, visit www.HomelessChildrenAmerica.org.
